Would Permit Council To Enact Levy

Charter Adviser Opposes Section On Income Tax

H. D. Portmand of Columbus, who has been hired by the city to advise and handle the technical writing of the proposed city charter, last night told Commission members that he believes they are making a mistake by including a section in the charter which would prevent enactment of any income tax or payroll tax without a vote of the public.

Portmand said he does not believe it is wise to take away from City Council its right to pass an income tax. "That's what you elect representatives for," Portmand remarked. "I also think it is a mistake to pass an income tax just for one year," he added.

Last April, before the hiring of Portmand, the Commission voted after a lengthy discussion to write the following paragraph into the proposed charter:

"No form of income or form of payroll tax shall be passed by Council without the question first having been submitted to a vote of the people and its having been passed upon by the affirmative vote of a majority of the electors voting thereon."

The existing city income tax of one-half of one per cent, which went into effect on Jan. 1 of this year, was adopted by the present City Council as an emergency measure to raise needed funds for general city operations and capital improvements.

The present income tax ordinance is scheduled to expire on Dec. 31, but Council has already indicated that it will extend the tax, possibly for an indefinite period.

Such proposed projects as an overpass at the W. State St. grade crossing and raises for city employees apparently hinge on the renewal of the income tax.

If the proposed charter, containing the income tax clause as now written, is approved by the public in November, it would not affect any tax ordinance already on the books. However, if the income tax ordinance is knocked out by a future Council or by referendum, no other such tax could be enacted without a favorable vote of the public.

It now remains to be seen whether Portmand's recommendation on the tax issue will have any influence on Charter Commission members who previously voted to take the right to levy an income tax out of Council's hands. There was no indication from any Commission member last night that any such change is planned.

Another recommendation made by Portmand last night was that the mayor not be made a member of the planning commission. He pointed out that the planning commission is supposed to serve in an advisory capacity to the mayor and if the mayor is on the commission he would be advising himself.

Portmand also recommended that no Council member be made a member of the planning commission, but that the service director be made an ex-officio member.

Portmand presented a working draft of the proposed charter to the Commission last night and members began the process of working out rough spots in the material to prepare it for public

Salineville Man Hurt In 1-Car Crash

A Salineville man suffered minor injuries in one of three traffic accidents which occurred on Columbiana County highways Monday and early this morning.

Theodore R. Roberts, 53, of RD 2, Salineville, received a laceration of the forehead when he lost control of his car on Rt. 164, north of Salineville, and struck an embankment at 12:30 p.m. Monday.

According to the state highway patrol, Roberts was traveling north on Rt. 164 when he went off the right side of the road, crossed over to the left side and struck a guard rail, then bounced back off the right side of the road again where he struck the embankment.

Roberts told the patrol he would go to his family physician for treatment. He was cited for driving left of center and is scheduled to appear in county court today at Lisbon.

Robert Cole, 17, of Youngstown escaped injury when he lost control of his car which overturned on Rt. 164, north of Lisbon, at 10:35 p.m. Monday.

In another accident at 1:45 a.m. today on Rt. 30, about two miles northeast of East Liverpool, cars operated by Joseph Basile, 36, of Fontana, Calif., and Marion Frank, 42, of Brunswick, sideswiped, causing minor damage to both vehicles.

GREETINGS FOR CHEN — President Kennedy greets Nationalist Chinese Vice President Chen Chang and his wife at a White House meeting. In back of Mrs. Chen is Vice President Lyndon Johnson.

JFK Briefed On Khrushchev Talk

White House Mum On McCloy Report

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House remained mum today on the report President Kennedy received from his disarmament administrator, John J. McCloy.

McCloy briefed Kennedy for more than an hour at the White House last Monday on his lengthy talk with Khrushchev last week. Sitting in at the White House session was Secretary of State Dean Rusk, who flies to Paris late this week to meet with the foreign ministers of Britain, France and Germany on the Berlin situation.

McCloy, who has just concluded two weeks of disarmament discussions at Moscow, is the first high-ranking American to have a lengthy session with Khrushchev since the Kennedy-Khrushchev meeting in Vienna June 3-4 at which Khrushchev advanced his Berlin plan. McCloy saw Khrushchev at the Soviet chief's Black Sea resort.

Khrushchev says he will sign a peace treaty with Communist East Germany this year. He contends this will wipe out western rights in West Berlin.

Informants said Khrushchev restated his position during his discussion with McCloy and added nothing basically new.

Khrushchev reportedly made plain his dislike for Kennedy's radio-TV speech to the nation a week ago in which Kennedy pledged to defend West Berlin by force if necessary.

However, the Khrushchev-Mc-

Cloy meeting was described as frank and cordial in tone.

Although the Moscow disarmament discussions were largely fruitless, as were the previous two-weeks talks on the subject in Washington, U.S. authorities saw enough hope in the slight Soviet modification to warrant pursuing the matter further.

Battle Lines Drawn In Gas Increase Case

CLEVELAND (AP) — Battle lines have been drawn by city officials for a fight to prevent the East Ohio Gas Co. from getting a $33.9-million rate increase from consumers here and in 107 other communities in Northeastern Ohio.

Calling the rate increase figure fantastic, Mayor Anthony J. Celebrezze said Monday he is instructing the law department "to hire the necessary experts to analyze the company's figures and to prepare to protect the consumers' interest in this matter."

Law Director Ralph S. Locher said the East Ohio proposal was a "Cruel blow."

The company plans to file a request for the increase, which it says will add $3 a month to the gas bill of the average residential user, with the Public Utilities Commission in Columbus today.

The proposed increase, announced by East Ohio Monday, is the biggest ever asked by the company. No major increase is being asked for industrial customers.

Fumes Force 10,000 From Illinois Towns

PEORIA, Ill. (AP)—At least 10,000 persons left their homes in nearby towns for several hours early today when a coupling broke and poison fumes filled the air as ammonia was being transferred from a barge to a dockside tank along the Illinois River.

State police said at least 19 persons were hospitalized before the all-clear was given after more than four hours. Residents then were allowed back in their homes.

Six persons were released after treatment, and none of the hospitalized was in serious condition.

The entire population of nearby Bartonville—more than 7,200 persons—and most of Creve Coeur's 6,000-plus residents left the area after officials urged an evacuation until the air cleared.

As the winds shifted, the fumes drifted into North Pekin and East Peoria.

Creve Coeur police said the coupling had been repaired and no more ammonia fumes were escaping. The fumes could be deadly if inhaled in great quantities.

Hundreds of evacuees crowded the Bradley University field house in this north central Illinois city of about 102,000. Others went into several high school gymnasiums and the nearby mess hall of the Hannah City radar base, to wait for the air to clear.

Claim West Polio Epidemic

German Reds Threaten Travel Restrictions

BERLIN (AP)—The East German Communists threatened today to restrict travel between East and West Germany, claiming a polio epidemic in West Germany is spreading the disease across the Iron Curtain border.

Western observers saw the move as another attempt to dam the rising flow of refugees streaming into West Berlin from East Germany. A record high of 30,444 refugees poured into the Western sector of the divided city in July.

The East German news agency ADN said the Red regime's Health Ministry asked the Interior Ministry to take steps "in regard to travel between West Germany and the German Democratic Republic that will produce the best protection for the citizenry."

The steps were not spelled out nor was any date given for their application but Western observers felt the East German regime might use the polio pretext to close the border.

Ohio Assembly May Recess Until November

Lack Of Override Votes On DiSalle Veto Stymies Group

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Stymied by the lack of votes to override a major money veto by Democratic Gov. Michael V. DiSalle, the Republican-led Ohio legislature is about to declare a recess until Nov. 14.

Lawmakers worked until late Monday night to crawl out from under the pile of pending business, then decided to quit until today.

The Nov. 14 session will consider Democratic Gov. Michael V. DiSalle's massive veto of 1,010 line items which canceled the entire second-year appropriation of the present two-year budget period. Republicans decided they didn't have time enough this week to consider the governor's unprecedented appropriations bill veto.

Republicans will decide sometime today what to do and what to leave undone before they step out of the traces pending the 3½-month recess before the budget session which will follow November's municipal elections.

From his standpoint, Gov. DiSalle had an excellent veto record. He vetoed 24 bills. Only 7 have been overridden; 14 have been sustained; 2 are floating in the never-never land, and the 24th is the big budget veto which will be acted upon Nov. 14.

The slow-motion legislative day Monday saw:

The Senate revive and pass a House-approved bill to pay nearly $1 million in sundry claims against the state.

The Senate Finance Committee defer action on an additions and betterments bill which originally was intended to clear the Senate today.

Both houses override a veto of an act to exempt capital and producers from the state sales tax. The House sustain a veto of a bill to increase contributions of Ohio employers into the unemployment compensation fund while stiffening eligibility requirements for jobless benefits.

Also sustained were vetoes on bills which would have:

Permitted cities to be self-insurers under workmen's compensation.

Exempted Ohio State University Hospital nurses and technicians from civil service to permit higher wage scales.

Permitted the state welfare de-

Hail, Wind Cause Damage

Severe Storm Hits Rural Ohio Town

ELDORADO, Ohio (AP)—Residents of this small rural community began patching up their farms and homes today in the wake of a storm that raked the village with wind, hail and drenching rains.

Although one boy who had a head cut was the only casualty, the storm took heavy damage in barns, houses and utility lines.

A squall line that cut across Southwest Ohio at supertime Monday night spawned the concentrated damage at Eldorado. It was believed at first to be a twister, but questioning of some of the 449 residents showed none had seen anything resembling a destructive funnel.

The state highway patrol estimated damage at up to $100,000 in Eldorado, in northwest Preble County.

That included several roofs torn off, including one on the clinic of Dr. L. D. Kenney.

Roraring in from the northeast, the storm flattened at least three barns, damaged corn and oats crops extensively and knocked down trees, chimneys and television antennas. Shingles were torn and windows smashed.

The village was isolated from power and telephone service for several hours.

Mrs. Sam Holsapple was unhurt when the barn where she was milking cows was blown down. A few of the livestock were caught in the timbers.

Salineville Mayor Seeks Re-Election

Mayor Kenneth Leishman of Salineville filed today with the County Election Board to seek a second term in non-partisan balloting at the Nov. 7 general election, and a Leetonia district man entered for a seat on the County Board of Education.

Allan G. Chamberlin of Holloway Rd., Leetonia RD 2, a farmer and poultryman, filed for the county board seat. Making his first bid for public office, he is president of the Fairfield School Parent-Teacher Assn.

The county board will have at least one new member next term. Ben Weingart of Leetonia announced at the board's July meeting he would not seek a new term.

Mayor Leishman, a lumberman, resides in Salineville's west end. For the first time in many years, Salineville will name its village officials without party labels in the November election because its population fell below 2,000 in the 1960 census. Villages under 2,000 elect their officials on non-partisan ballots, bypassing the primaries.

Meanwhile, the County Election Board listed eight more candidates for township trustee posts, including two from Hanover Township and three from Middleton. The Hanover candidates are J.M. Ridgeway and Chester Stuckey.

Two terms are expiring this year on the Salem board, those of Dr. Donald Lease and Stephen A. Gonda. The latter has filed for re-election, but Dr. Lease announced he will not run again.

Paul Howard has also filed as a school board candidate.

Gives JFK Right To Call 250,000 Reservists Back

Resolution Also Asks Extension Of Training Periods

WASHINGTON (AP)—Congress has given President Kennedy the authority he asked to call up to 250,000 reservists into military service and extend active duty tours and enlistments one year. Final approval came only six days after Kennedy requested the military manpower buildup.

The House Monday passed 403 to 2 the emergency resolution authorizing the President to put a quarter-million ready reservists in uniform for one year, either as individuals or in units.

The resolution, approved earlier by the Senate 75-0, also authorizes extending training periods for the 2,400,000 members of the ready reserve.

The Defense Department matched pace with Congress in expediting the swift strengthening of U.S. armed forces Kennedy called for last Tuesday.

The Pentagon announced late Monday that four Air Force bases slated for deactivation, would remain on active status—McDill in Florida, Chennault in Louisiana, Donaldson in South Carolina and Laughlin in Texas.

This is necessary to provide facilities for continued operation of B47 jet bombers which had been slated to give way to later model aircraft.

The Navy plans to add 60 vessels to the fleet, mainly for transport and antisubmarine service.

Twenty new ships will be provided from the combatant shipbuilding program, many of them destroyer-type craft for antisubmarine work. A corresponding number of older destroyers will

Man Grilled In District Mob Slayings

CLEVELAND (AP) — A man described by police as a member of the old Detroit-Toledo Purple Gang was held in jail here today without charge for questioning in the recent racket slayings in Youngstown and Warren.

Ernest (Fusco) LaSelle, 59, was picked up by detectives early Monday on Euclid Avenue near East 112th Street. He gave a New York address.

Officers said he had just left another member of the Purple Gang, which conducted a reign of terror in gaining control of bootlegging, gambling and other rackets in Michian and Ohio during the prohibition era.

Police Inspector Richard R. Wagner said LaSelle had been in Cleveland about the times of the recent slayings of Vince DeNiro, a top racket figure in Youngstown, and Mike Farah, Warren racketeer.

"We can't let that coincidence go unchecked," Wagner said. DeNiro, 39, was killed July 17 when a bomb ripped apart a car he was starting as he turned the ignition key.

Farah, 56, was wounded fatally by shotgun blasts fired from a moving car June 10 as he was swinging a golf club in the back yard of his home.

Police said LaSelle told them he lived in Warren for a time, but moved to New York last summer because authorities in the area kept arresting him for questioning. He said he had just come to Cleveland from Warren. Police said he had nearly $600 in his pockets.

Police at Youngstown said LaSelle was known as Ernie Fusco there and it was common knowledge that he knew and dealt with DeNiro.

Story Of A Proud Capital

A Brief History Of Divided, Isolated, Threatened Berlin

EDITOR'S NOTE: In this first of a series of four stories intended to illuminate the problems that make up the Berlin crisis, AP correspondent Carl Hartman, a veteran observer of the German scene, outlines the historical background of the isolated, divided, threatened city.

The Berlin Crisis—1

By CARL HARTMAN

BERLIN (AP)—Isolated, divided, threatened—these are the words most often used to describe Berlin. All of them are accurate.

But just as remarkable is one characteristic of the city that no single word can describe. It is the only place on earth where you can walk across the street from communism into the Western world, and vice versa.

This is a legacy from Adolf Hitler and the Nazis whose swastika banners flew in Berlin from 1933 until the country was driven to collapse in 1945.

The Red army occupied the city in the closing days of World War II but then turned over a little more than half the city to the Americans, French and British allies.

This division in defeat was a low point for a city that had once been the capital of efficient Prussian monarchs and steely German emperors. Hitler was the last ruler of a united Germany to ride in triumph along its broad boulevards.

The Nazi dictator built a new chancellery in what was then the center of the city, next to the president's palace, near the U.S., British, French and Soviet embassies. Western bombers and Russian artillery destroyed them all, along with 43 per cent of all the housing in the city. All that is left of the chancellery now is a little grass-covered hill just inside the border of the Soviet sector—East Berlin.

Less than a year before Hitler's body was burned in his chancellery garden, his major enemies agreed to divide the city. The Western allies got the more populous half, with some of the best living quarters. The Soviets sector included the central district of government buildings and shops, but there was little left of them.

The system of four-power rule did not last in Berlin. By 1948, East and West Berlin had separate currencies and city governments. They were soon to have separate — and unconnected — telephone, electric power and surface transport systems. Subway and elevated trains, however, continued to run through both parts of the city. There was little interference with pedestrians and private cars. The only time the Iron Curtain was effectively rolled down was for a few days during the anti-Communist uprising of 1953.

But the Communists isolated West Berlin much more effectively from West Germany. This was easy, since the city lies in the middle of Soviet-controlled East Germany, with the rest of the Western world 110 miles away.

The Communists permitted contact between West Berlin and West Germany only across two canals, four roads, four rail lines and three air corridors. Communist East Germans took control of the overland routes, except for a small amount of Western military traffic. The Soviets continue to work with the three Western allies in controlling the air lanes through the Berlin Air Safety Center.

In June 1948, the Communists

Secretary Tours Rocket Sites

Goldberg Seeking No Future Missile Base Labor Stoppage

VANDERBERG AIR FORCE BASE (AP)—Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg said today that now the United States is "under the gun" in the Berlin crisis there is no excuse for any further missile base labor stoppages.

The labor secretary, touring major bases to shore up a two-month old no-strike pledge, said that any serious breach of the pledge could result in President Kennedy seeking a legal no-strike ban from Congress.

Goldberg said, however, that the voluntary pledge is working well—that man-days a month lost to missile base labor disputes measured in many thousands a year ago is now measured in only a few hundred.

He said President Kennedy is keeping close tab on the situation since a Senate committee headed by Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., found work stoppages and excessive overtime practices were costing delays and over-expenditures in space programs.

Kennedy, Goldberg said, expects everyone concerned with missile-space project work to do his job and to respect the no-strike, no-lockout pledge.

"This is a test we are making," the labor secretary told the local missile site labor relations committee at Strategic Air Command headquarters, Omaha, Neb. late Monday.

"But the president will have no hesitancy in going to Congress (for strike-banning legislation) if that becomes necessary," Goldberg said.

Goldberg's theme at every stop has been that establishment of national and local missile labor settlement procedures makes strikes unnecessary. Uninterrupted and economical completion of projects in view of the world situation, is too important for that, he said.

The Doctor Says

By DR. H. T. HYMAN

Snug Corset Answer to Dizzy Spells

Q—Can you tell me what causes spells like I had the other day after I'd been ironing? I suddenly felt dizzy and all numb. I stopped my work to lie down. After a few minutes the spell went away and I felt OK. Sometimes these spells are different. Then I get light-headed and sort of headachy. But when I lie down a few minutes my head clears.

My doctor says he can't tell about these spells unless he sees me when I'm having the spell. But by the time I could send for him and he could get here I'd be OK again.

I have five children and a big house to take care of so I can't be forever lying down. Do you have any idea what these spells are and what I can do about them?

A—I'd suspect that you are suffering from what we doctors call orthostatic hypotension. That is to say, an abrupt fall of blood pressure due to prolonged standing. When you lie down, your blood pressure returns to normal and your symptoms disappear.

The fact that you have five children suggests that your abdominal muscles may be quite relaxed so that you act the way a bunny does when he's held up by the ears. Most of his blood gets pooled in the vessels of his pot belly. His brain is deprived of its needed supply and he goes all limp.

If my suspicion is correct, you might try wearing a snug corset while you do your ironing—which must be quite a load with five children in the house. And you might try sitting while you iron although most women say it's not possible to do a good job of ironing if they remain seated. At any rate, if you get the idea, I'm sure you'll work out some way of defeating these spells, as you call them.

Q—HOW DANGEROUS is pregnancy in a woman of 35 with heart disease? I have what the doctors call a mitral stenosis as a result of an attack of rheumatic fever when I was a little girl.

A—In general, the patient with valvular disease such as you describe tolerates pregnancy amazingly well. In a recent study conducted at the Boston Lying-In Hospital, the effects of pregnancy were observed in a series of 502 mothers with cardiac defects most of whom, like you, had mitral stenosis of rheumatic origin.

IN ONLY 3 PER CENT was it necessary to terminate the pregnancy and the over-all mortality was less than 1 per cent.

However, you must remember that these women received expert care from the very beginning of their pregnancies. Consequently, these encouraging statistics might not apply under less ideal conditions.

If you are about to conceive or have conceived, you should place yourself in the hands of an experienced obstetrician and a physician who has had special training in the treatment of circulatory disorders. With their aid and guidance, you may confidently look forward to the happiest of experiences at minimum risk.

Dear Reader: Dr. Hyman appreciates your comments and questions but regrets that the heavy volume of his mail doesn't permit him to answer each individual letter or post card. However, he will comment in columns like the above upon matters of general or unusual interest.

A Perilous Time

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—How is your summer going?

Summer is a perilous time, the most dangerous of the seasons, when both nature and the gadgets of man lie in wait to ambush the unwary.

Most people have enough sense to come in out of the cold in winter, but few have enough wisdom to come in out of the heat in summer. They flee to the great outdoors—to a mountain, lake or beach resort—where all kinds of pitfalls await them.

I prefer to flee to the great indoors when the temperature zooms over the 90-degree mark. The best way to survive summer is to pull in your welcome mat, and hole up for the duration in an airconditioned apartment on the door of which you have hung a sign saying "Do not disturb until autumn."

Our family has followed this policy with fine success. With summer at the half-way mark not one of us has—

Had a bad case of sunburn. Come down with smoke poisoning—or ptomaine poisoning—from helping a suburban pioneer father in a backyard cook-out.

Caught a summer cold, or the mumps, or the measles.

Been stepped on by a horse, or had to run from a bull.

Fallen out of a hammock while trying to read "War and Peace," or other light summer literary fodder.

Been hit on the head by a baseball, horseshoe or tennis racket.

Come home bankrupt from a race track.

INCOME TAX TROUBLE — Mrs. Lucille Alger, former wife of U.S. Rep. Bruce Alger (R-Tex) displays in Dallas a notice from federal government that Rep. Alger is behind in his income tax payments and government has authorized liens to seize his personal property to collect the amount owed.

Lost a toe in a power lawn mower.

Been smashed across the stomach by a shovel in the hands of a grave-eyed small child at the seashore.

Had our sleep broken by the noisy chirping of an early bird up at dawn looking for a belated worm.

Sat for fruitless hours in a boat salivating at swarms of mosquitoes while fishing in a lake where nothing bigger than a tadpole has been since 1902.

Had a tent collapse on us in a rainstorm while camping in a public park.

Each day my wife has to venture across the street to the grocery store and announces on her return: "My, it's hot out there!"

"Well," I tell her, "let me know when you see an icicle—then I'll go to the store."

Lisbon Social

A large crowd was in attendance Saturday when a new Bethel of Job's Daughters was instituted at Salineville at the Masonic Temple.

Lisbon Bethel No. 48 opened the meeting at 2:30 p.m., with Gloria Dell Tritten, honored queen, in charge. She was assisted by her officers.

Mrs. Helen Wertz of Cincinnati, grand guardian of Ohio, was presented the gavel by Miss Tritten and she with other grand officers instituted the Salineville Bethel and also installed the guardian council of the Salineville unit.

Lisbon Bethel again took over the work, and 31 Salineville girls were initiated.

Dinner was served at 5:30 by the women of the Eastern Star to more than 200.

DURING THE EVENING session, installation of officers was held by girls of the Grand Bethel of Ohio, with Sandy Young of Cincinnati Bethel No. 38, grand Bethel honored queen, presiding. All the grand officers were present. Miss Tritten is the grand Bethel outer guard.

Those who will serve the new Salineville Bethel are: Jeanne Earl, honored queen; Evelyn Moore, senior princess; Marsha Temple, junior princess; Gwen Parsons, guide; Sally Hurst, marshal; Darla Johnson, chaplain; Susan Earl, treasurer; Renna Eisenbarth, librarian; Paulette Kerr, musician; Renee Forbes, Denise Elliott, Cheryl Young, Susan Hurst and Mary Anne Tolson, messengers; Diane Detton, senior custodian; Eileen Pierson, junior custodian; Linda Griffith, inner guard, and Gayle Johnson, outer guard.

The honored queen's theme for the year is "Love One Another." The Bethel received many lovely gifts.

Past grand guardians of the state of Ohio present were Mrs. Jane Halstead of Cincinnati, Mrs. Eva Faulke of Marietta and Mrs. Margaret Stokes of Cleveland. The associate grand guardian of Ohio, Sheldon Lester of Coshocot, also attended.

Council members for the new Bethel installed by Mrs. Wertz are Mrs. Esther Wilson, Ira Rice, Mrs. Mary Jarvis, Mrs. Eileen Madison and Mrs. Ruth Webb.

Miss Grace Todd of Lisbon was appointed deputy for the new Bethel by the grand guardian, Mrs. Wertz.

Ohio Cities' Wage Output Increases

Salaries and wages paid by Ohio's 150 cities during the 1960 calendar year amounted to $280,387,315, it was announced today by State Auditor James A. Rhodes, based upon reports submitted by municipal officials throughout the state.

This was an increase of $4,136,200, or 1.4 per cent, over the $276,251,115 spent for such purposes during the previous year.

The expenditures to meet the payrolls for the operation of the various municipal-owned utilities, including electric and gas plants, sewage systems, water works and transit systems, totaled $62,962,697, up $743,942 over the previous year. In addition, other municipal employees were paid $217,424,617, which was an increase of $3,392,017 over 1959.

While the state-wide expenditures recorded increases, the four larger cities — Cleveland, Cincinnati, Columbus and Toledo — tightened up their financial belts and reduced their aggregate wage and salary items to $148,612,236, from the $153 million spent during 1959.

The composite statistical report showed that Salem had a 1960 tax valuation of $38,885,243; that the city's total expenditures for salaries and wages amounted to $293,292, which included $103,730 spent for the operation of the various public utilities, and $189,562 spent for other municipal operations.

We Might Have To Do Just That

That noisy fellow who rouses the Cuban rabble is making noises as if he thought the United States was coming to Havana to get that commercial airplane one of the noisy fellow's pistol-packers stole at gunpoint.

He shouldn't tempt fate. It is unlikely the United States will go to Havana to get the plane. But there are things the United States could do that would keep the noisy fellow from having any use of the stolen property.

It could find out with no trouble where the plane is being kept, and then it could send a few military planes to that particular point with orders to lay a stick of old-fashioned bombs on the object under discussion.

When it did this, moreover, it could tell the noisy fellow it was on the way and exactly what it intended to do. There wouldn't be enough time for takeoff to arrive over the target for him to move the plane anyway.

Then, to point up the lesson, it could serve notice it intended to put one old-fashioned bomb down the main stack of every factory he had stolen and if he chose to construe this as an act of war he should do so by all means, because the United States was choosing to construe it as routine retaliation for the theft of property, like the routine retaliation that greeted pirates and thieves in a simpler era before it became the fashion to trump up an excuse for every violation of international law and try to turn the tables on the law-abiding.

Austerity of Another Color

It's a good bet the British eventually will pull through their prime minister's new austerity program and a fair bet the prime minister will pull through himself. But for the present the British are not being good sports about it.

Their angry reaction to Harold Macmillan's belt-tightening shows what could have been expected in the United States if President Kennedy had proposed actual sacrifices for defense instead of talking about the possibility of sacrifices.

Perhaps if the British had been told that austerity was required for national defense, it would have gone down easier. But they were told it was required for national survival, which is something more serious, though not so exciting. They reacted bitterly.

This may shed a ray of political light on the prospect for American-style austerity. President Kennedy has hinted at increased taxation later on, and in the natural order of things he might get around to grimmer topics, such as wage controls. But for the moment he is underwriting the happy illusion that the United States can inflate its military spending without offsetting the inflationary effect with belt-tightening.

In Britain, austerity is nothing more mysterious than the obvious cure for something that was of deep concern in the United States as recently as a year ago. The American people were spending so much money abroad, they couldn't balance their payments. The British have been living better than they could afford to live.

In this country, the problem dissolved of its own accord. No austerity was called for. President Eisenhower proposed cutbacks in allowances for families of overseas troops, but even those were rescinded. Austerity isn't a popular idea in the United States, not even in its softer shades.

But Not The Government

A White House statement that any communication satellite system developed in the United States must be in private hands blocks government out of the picture.

But the presidential policy on private ownership is not a surprise. People who are well-informed about development of communication satellite systems had foreseen that it couldn't be carried on in any other way. The prospects are so wide-ranging and the cost of development so huge the government couldn't assume such a heavy responsibility. It has its missile program to worry about—and that alone is a big enough tail to wag a government dog.

The surprise in the White House policy is omission of steering action for regulating competition among private hands reaching for a chance to move into this exciting new field of communication. The Federal Communications System, it is explained, will have to settle this touchy matter.

American Telephone & Telegraph Co., already established in the field of international communications, has been contending it should bear primary responsibility. No other enterprise, it points out, has the facilities to make immediate use of satellite communications. Moreover, it points out, it has a working model of the satellite to be used and needs only government cooperation to go forward quickly. It is offering to pay the cost of shooting the satellites into orbit.

This would not bar other private enterprise, which would be free to use all AT&T facilities, just as they are used now for television broadcasting. But it would bar a kind of competition that would benefit no one and avert a kind of chaos that might force government into a field that President Kennedy says government should avoid.

Those Devilishly Clever Japanese

American Economic Foundation has put together a set of statistics that should make the Japanese feel especially pleased with themselves.

Since World War II, they have managed to reverse what used to be a bad reputation for making bad goods at low prices. They now have a reputation for making good goods at low prices, and their new reputation has been causing purchasers in the United States to wonder how much they owe their own countrymen when they can buy Japanese bargains in American stores.

On top of this — and also because of it — Japanese industry is booming at an impressive clip. America Economic Foundation reports Japan has had a rate of economic growth since 1953 on the order of 258 per cent, compared with 119 per cent for the United States. The foundation reports Japan has 1.1 per cent unemployment, compared with the U.S. rate of 6.8 per cent. Japan, in fact, now presents the rosiest economic picture of the world's eight leading industrial nations of the free world. And one of the reasons for this, surmises the American Economic Foundation, is that Japan has had the good judgment to reward its producers with a depreciation allowance of more than 100 per cent at the end of five years. Sweden and Italy grant an even 100 per cent, France 90 per cent, West Germany 76 per cent, Canada 66 per cent, England 65 per cent and the United States — lowest in economic growth and highest in unemployment — only 40 per cent.

Granted that the comparisons aren't exact and that the statistics are not flawless, the moral of the foundation's presentation is strong and clear:

Foolish is the nation that refuses to feed the goose which lays its golden eggs.

Once Over

To go boating today is to get into traffic jam featuring seagulls. People once took to the water to relax. Today they leave the dock only to run into immediate chaos.

Our seas, bays, lakes, and rivers have everything superhighways have except traffic lights and ambulances.

This summer most of them have seagoing cops. Alert commodores see that yacht club have dressing stations.

We favor code flags on all boats, large, small or medium, as follows:

White flag with red cross in center: Trainer driver, first-year yachtsman or speed maniac.

Blue flag with white circle: Operator thinks he is astronaut in cone.

Green and yellow flag: Cruise, my eye! Owner is learning to fly by marine chart.

Purple flag: Owner is aboard but regretting it.

Orange flag: Owner WAS aboard, but is now missing after sudden crash.

Pink flag: Welcome aboard, if you can overtake us in orbit.

White and Green flag: Hit us on starboard side only; our port side is already full of holes.

Black flag with white stripes: Outboard motorboat; every man for himself.

Ye ed used to be a cruise addict, but today feels safer in auto during holiday weekend. On open road fender is never torn off by driver in yachting cap trying to navigate and mix martinis for guests at same time. Nobody should get into a boat today unless it is equipped with safety belts.

Seas are full of boat operators who think channel buoys are put out for decorative purposes. Commodore can be man promoted for having most dents in boat. Fleet captain is apt to be officer who keeps record of collisions while wearing life preserver himself. Some clubs post a member for excessive caution. Two postings mean a half hour's suspension. (If John Masfield goes "down to the sea" again today he is off his rocker.)

GOV. ROCKEFELLER has three air-raid shelters in his various homes. That should help in the battles with Bob Wagner.

There is now a home and backyard electric computer enabling a man to drive a golf ball and determine what makes him slice or hook. The distance and the quality of the shot are plainly recorded. This has wives worried. They may have to listen not only to a play-by-play account of game on the links, but to a similar ordeal when he tells them how he did on the electronic machine.

Effect on golfer may be bad. When he scores perfect game by electronics and discovers on links that he is the same old duffer, it can make him a psychopathic case disposed to do violence to golfcourse designer, greens keeper, tournament committee and all electronic scientists.

Remember away back when nobody jeered a cop.

Crisis

The Young Italians

By VICTOR RIESEL

ROME This is to report there is a movement here called "Kennedy-ismo."

It's new. It's non-partisan. It has no use for Communists or neo-Fascists. It's a movement of the younger political leaders of all other parties. "Kennedy-ismo" simply says it's time for the younger men in all political parties to be given a chance.

They believe some of the political leaders are so ancient they're creaking — and so is the government — and if there is no change Italy might fall to the young, vibrant, pile-driving Communist party.

"Kennedy-ismo" was the idea of one bright member of the governing Christian Democratic party. He decided to invite younger men of all parties to a banquet not long after our own national election in which two young men, a 43-year-old and a 47-year-old ran for president.

The 43-year-old won, so the younger Italians called their movement Kennedy-ismo. Had it been Nixon, it probably would have been Nixon-ismo.

THE ORGANIZERS expected six to 10 men at their dinner. Some two hundred arrived. Influential men, too.

They were in revolt against the fact that some leaders have held power for four to five decades. But there is something more. They are worried about the strength of the Italian Communist party. With its 1 3/4 million to 2 million members it is the biggest in the free world.

Yet Italy is enjoying a gold rush. It has more than $3 billion in its own Fort Knox. Italy has so many American companies investing here, it has become a haven for U.S. efficiency experts, management training experts, time and motion study experts.

In fact Italy has reached the greatest rate of increase in its income and gross national product in the world.

Italy as a nation is getting rich — yet the Communist party is getting bigger bit by bit. Furthermore its strength is in the high income areas. It's obviously not poverty but propaganda and organization that makes a successful party.

THIS IN EFFECT, is what the new movement is examining — and again I point out that Kennedy-ismo has brought together men of all parties, not in a new party but in a new movement to promote younger men in all parties.

It is more than ambition or competitiveness which stirs them. The government machinery has become too big for the government itself. It is strangling itself and its people in red tape. This angers the citizenry and creates a massive protest vote—the Communist — left wing Socialist vote. The red tape is just one of the hundreds of irritations. But it's typical.

There are in this lovely land many firms which specialize in de-snaufu-ing business. Their sole speciality is unraveling red tape.

These are private businesses. Without them many government bureaus and the citizenry could never get together.

There are at least 80, perhaps a hundred, social security, pension and other government agencies here. There is no single deduction for social security as in our country. The rate differs. Steelworkers have one rate; sailors another, etc. So the agencies multiply.

SUPPOSE then a worker doesn't get his check or must make contact with the proper government agency for some reason.

Well, he just doesn't send a letter or go up to the window and complain or demand action. He goes to the private firm which specializes in de-snaufu-ing that particular government agency. Otherwise he would get nowhere.

The government bureau just wouldn't bother with him, or it would get him so snarled in red tape it literally would take several years to settle the matter.

But the private citizen doesn't pay the de-snaufu-ing corporation. The government pays his fee.

In other words, the government realizes that many of its bureaus are so choked with red tape, it needs the help of private service firms to unravel it. Government is so big that governing appears to have become too big for the government itself.

And this is just one of a thousand instances and frustrations the Communists exploit.

The younger men, conservatives and liberals alike, want something done about it before it is too late.

Incompetence Of United Nations Machinery

IN EUROPE The world is witnessing in the Tunisian affair a sad example of the incompetence or disarray of the United Nations machinery for mediating in international disputes.

When serious trouble breaks out, as it did a few days ago in Tunisia, it is wrong for Dag Hammarskjold, the secretary general of the U.N., to accept an invitation from one side and then promptly set forth, by letter to the other side, proposals that must inevitably be regarded by the latter as partisan.

In a subsequent letter of explanation to the French foreign minister, Mr. Hammarskjold declared that his attitude was "based solely on the interpretation of the duties of the secretary general and of the principles of the charter adopted by the organization in the past, and also on the intentions, I venture to believe, of all the members of the council who voted for the interim resolution."

But is it the function of the secretary general of the U.N. to interpret the "intentions" of the members of the United Nations?

Mediation has been most successful in the history of diplomacy when undertaken with the consent of both sides in a dispute and when the mediators confine themselves at first to fact finding.

Then, after feeling out each of the parties, proposals can be submitted for the adjustment of the dispute.

President de Gaulle was right in refusing at this time to see Mr. Hammarskjold in Paris. For the latter had unwittingly disqualified himself as a mediator by conferring with the Tunisian government without first having obtained an agreement to talk with the other party in the controversy.

What the United Nations secretariat should have been at work on during these past few days was an investigation of exactly what happened before and after President Bourguiba ordered a siege of the French base at Bizerte and his troops opened fire on French paratroopers reinforcing the base.

The world should have been given the facts, and both sides should have been permitted to state the reasons for their respective actions before an attempt was made to launch proposals for a settlement.

EVERY MEDIATOR in any important controversy finds it necessary, above all, to establish his position as one of complete impartiality. An editorial in the Baltimore Sun, reprinted in Europe, says in part:

"Mr. Hammarskjold's personal intervention in the Bizerte affair displayed less than his usual finesse. He flew to Tunisia in response to a direct plea from President Bourguiba and not on explicit instructions from the Security Council. This allowed the French to claim that he was playing the Tunisian side, though his intention is to play the honest broker."

Also, with passions raised to a high point when fighting occurs, it is especially important, after a cease fire, to allow for a cooling-off period before any actual peace proposals are brought forward.

In the Tunisian controversy, the United Nations called for a "cease fire," and it was obeyed by both sides, though the French refused to withdraw to the naval base troops they had moved into the city to repulse the attack.

But the Tunisian government immediately sent its foreign minister to Cairo to arrange with the United Arab Republic for "volunteers" to help fight the French forces.

This does not augur well for a negotiation in good faith. President Nasser has just announced that he is sending military equipment and supplies to the Tunisian armed forces but will the United Nations take cognizance of this obvious intervention by military means.

To run to Nasser, who has hitherto been hostile to the President of Tunisia, is strange indeed. For only three years ago Tunisia broke off diplomatic relations with the United Arab Republic and accused the latter of being involved in a plot to assassinate Bouguiba.

Another strange happening is recorded in a dispatch to the London Daily Telegraph from Rome, where it has just leaked out that the Tunisian government—before the Bizerte episode—concluded an agreement for new oil projects in Tunisia with Signor Mattei, the head of the Italian State Petroleum Co. This is the same individual who has been getting cut rates on oil from the Soviets in a maneuver that threatens to disrupt the whole price structure in oil throughout the world.

THE TUNISIAN government makes no secret of its desire to acquire a substantial share of the oil resources of the Sahara. It is widely believed that President Bourguiba saw a chance to enrich his country by making up with the Algerians, with whom he has hitherto been at loggerheads.

His action came at the very moment when France and Algeria, in peace negotiations at Evian-les-Bains, were struggling with the problem of Sahara oil.

Shortly after the Bizerte crisis, these talks collapsed when the Algerians asked for an indefinite suspension, presumably to work out a deal with Tunisia.

So if there were a real inquiry into the whole Tunisian affair and the facts were given to the world, many high-sounding phrases in espousal of "self-determination" and "anti-colonialism" would turn out to be a cover for a materialistic quest.

The Soviets have their eyes on the exploitation of the Sahara's oil resources for their own purposes and will furnish money for development provided they can get a hold on certain African countries and start a series of moves that will adversely affect the companies of the West which have oil pipelines and refineries in the Middle East.

THE MYSTERY of why Mr. Bourguiba has suddenly turned on his Western friends and provoked a quarrel with France is gradually being explained by what is happening in the grab for the Sahara's oil resources.

France has a treaty right to keep the Bizerte naval base until such time as a satisfactory agreement with Tunisia is achieved by direct negotiations.

The U.N. is neither a super-national body nor a superstate, and its usefulness as a peacemaker in the future will be enhanced only if it confines itself to the role of mediator and shuns partisanship.

One way to achieve that result is to send a special U.N. commission of at least three persons, appointed in each instance by the Security Council itself, to mediate and not rely on one man, even if he is the secretary general.

Purely Personal

By TRUMAN TWILL

It's odd when you think about it, that the fun-loving French should have earned a reputation for being quickest at the kill against people like Algerians, Tunisians and Egyptians, though not so quick a few years ago against people like the Germans.

Contrary to an impression being cultivated by the ever-resourceful South, Robert E. Lee did not think Ulysses Grant came to Appomattox to surrender and was so flabbergasted when he learned otherwise that he surrendered instead.

People watch a summer evening of TV shows they've seen before, then polish it off with reruns of movies they've seen before. Yet, they wouldn't think of rereading old magazines, newspapers or books.

I can remember when private insurance companies couldn't afford to compete with the low insurance rates of Blue Cross, though I now have the impression Blue Cross couldn't afford the low rates, either.

Adlai E. Stevenson has raised the question in Harpers Magazine about American capacity to rise to the challenges of the era. His idea is that we have grown too conservative—too complacent. That's funny. My idea is that we may have become too flighty.

One of the absurdities of the times is the refusal of people backing federal aid to education to recognize they have stirred up no support for their cause among the people supposedly panting for federal aid. In fact, many who support it are not interested in education at all but only in nationalizing public institutions.

Some people are always seizing trivialities in personal affairs and guiding them into issues—to have something to pick at. The same thing is very big among some editorialists, who are eternally finding moles and beams in the public eye and building them into molehills, which they then label mountains.

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

House Guest

Dear Ann: Bertha and I are both 21. We've been engaged seven months and planned to marry in March. But because of something the doctor told her yesterday we are getting married next week.

We've both been working and saving our money to buy a little house. The house we want to buy won't be finished for five months. Bertha's folks and mine have both invited us to live with them till the house is ready. We can't decide which set of parents to move in with. Can you help us?—SID.

Dear Sid: Since no one has a strong preference I'd favor the wife's parents. Two women in one kitchen is crowded at best but is usually works better if the second woman is the daughter rather than the daughter-in-law.

Comments on Editorial I wish to comment on the editorial, "Food For Thought," in last Friday's Salem News. More people should read and heed the message.

Mrs. Gertrude Kauffman, Lisbon Road.

Dear Ann Landers: I need help. I met a lovely girl at work and we went out to lunch together a few times. After about a week I decided she was something special and I asked her for a dinner date for Friday. And then this terrible thing happened.

She told me she was sorry but she had to go straight home after work because her mother wasn't feeling well. I happened to be about 20 feet behind her when she left on Friday — but she didn't know it. I saw her get into a nice-looking car, and the man at the wheel was old enough to be her father.

On Monday I told her off. She said, "Well, if that's what you think of me I'm glad to know it. That man happens to be my father."

Now what do I do? — BIG MOUTH.

Dear Big Mouth: Get on your knees, boy, and good luck.

The Roving Kind

Dear Ann: We've been married 10 years and have four children. The first year of our marriage we lived in my home town and I was very happy there. My husband didn't care for it.

U.N. Bloc Asks Further Support

Seeks More Backing For Special Session

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Asian and African delegates worked today to get the backing of 50 U.N. members for an emergency session of the General Assembly Thursday to take up Tunisia's charge of French aggression at Bizerte.

Kenneth K. S. Dadzie of Ghana, chairman of the group seeking the session, said he had collected signatures of 21 delegations on a request to Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld and hoped to get the other 29 by Wednesday. Hammarskjöld must call the session if a majority of the 99 U.N. members request it.

Some delegates predicted the drive would fail because many of France's former territories in Africa would withhold their support. Others predicted Latin-American and Communist nations would fill the gap.

The Security Council on July 22 called for a cease-fire between the French and Tunisian forces battling in the Bizerte area and for a return of all forces to their positions. The fighting stopped, but the French refused to withdraw from the city of Bizerte until they were guaranteed unrestricted communication with their big naval and air base.

The Asian-African bloc decided to seek the emergency assembly session after the Security Council could not agree on followup action.

Tunisia is also demanding that France withdraw all forces from the big Bizerte base which the French retained after Tunisia gained independence in 1956. The French contend the base is necessary to the defense of the North Atlantic alliance.

Russians May Launch Two-Man Orbit Flight

MOSCOW (AP) — Informed but unofficial sources said today it is likely the Soviet Union will try to launch another manned space flight around the earth soon, possibly within a week or 10 days. There was no official confirmation.

The sources said the flight might include two men instead of one since it is known here there is a booster rocket sufficiently strong to orbit a two-man space vehicle.

It appeared unlikely Yuri. Gagarin would be invited to make a second journey because of the risk and because of the advantage of increasing the number accomplishing space flight.

The supposition is strengthened by the fact it would be a great propaganda advantage to the Soviet Union to put two men together in orbit before America managed even one.

Atlas Rocket Flight Proves Successful

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — A successful 5,000-mile test flight has moved an advanced Atlas missile nearer operational status and provided valuable information for designing atomic power units for space vehicles.

The improved Atlas "E" model Monday scored its second straight success, hitting a target area off Ascension Island.

The new Atlas, which is being developed for greater range and heavier payload than the present operational model is to be ready for deployment late this year. On its previous test firing, an "E" rocket streaked a record 9,050 miles.

The blazing re-entry heat of the Monday shot burned through a special container attached to the side. Brilliant yellow and violet flares erupted.

The capsule carrying the flares simulated nuclear fuel cores. Men and cameras on ships, in planes and on Ascension watched and recorded the flares and the ionization trails created by the disintegrating capsules.

A radio transmitter relayed heat information. Additional data was obtained from a 30-inch cylinder which parachuted from the nose cone and was recovered by the ocean range vessel Coastal Crusader. The packet contained instruments and a tape recorder to register temperatures and nose cone performance.

The experiment could reveal much about how an atomic space generator would burn up and its radioactive contents disperse on re-entry into the earth's atmosphere.

The first atomic power device ever flown rode in a transit navigation satellite launched last month from Cape Canaveral. Officials said it was purposely over-designed to guarantee safety under any condition.

Aldom's Diner Gains Spot In Class D State Tourney

Old Dutch's Bill Herman Blanks Industrial Mining 1-0

Alliance Police Dept. 14-7 Victim

Gary Dermotta Snares Win; Locals Rack-Up 10 Runs In First Inning

By BOB JULIAN

A revived Salem Aldom's Diner aggregation finally showed what it is capable of doing as it rolled to a 14-7 triumph over the Alliance Police Dept. at Centennial Park Monday to capture one of two Class D District Hot Stove championships and move onto the state tournament this weekend in Alliance.

The Aldom's victory gives Salem two representatives in the Hot Stove State Tournament scheduled to begin Aug. 5-6. On Sunday the Firemen grabbed a spot in the Class G division with a 5-3 win over the Alliance Machine. Twelve Salem teams were entered in the district tourney.

ALDOM'S WAS NOT given the slightest chance to win its first district tourney game on the basis of its dismal 1-10 National 10th District American Legion League record. However, the Salem team seemed to find itself when the chips were down and now has combined strong pitching and getting the right hit at the right time to score two straight victories.

One link in Aldom's surge to the Class D state crown must be ironed out yet and that is shoddy fielding as the six errors and four unearned Alliance runs indicated last night.

The Diner nine started off against the Alliance crew like they were going to pound the m right into the ground. A 10-run uprising in the first inning completely paralyzed the visitors until the fifth inning when three errors opened the door to six Alliance tallies.

Aldom's pitcher Gary Dermotta, who went the distance and struck out nine, was in complete control of the game and only ran into trouble in the wild fifth inning. Dermotta hurled three hit ball for four frames and fanned eight batters as he faced only 15 Alliance hitters in the first four innings.

Tom Roberts was the big gun in the first stanza for Aldom's as he collected a three-run homer and lined out a double. Four walks and four Alliance miscues aided the Salem rally.

SALEM ADDED TWO more runs in the second inning on a single by Tom Owen, a walk to Terry Morlan and an error.

Alliance scored its first run in the opening inning when Braun reached first on an error, stole second and came home on a single by Hill. Then for the next three frames Dermotta handcuffed the Alliance crew with only one hit.

With Aldom's leading 12-1 going into the last of the fifth frame the Alliance nine spurred for three quick tallies before the Salem team got anybody out. Holmes then reached first on an error by third baseman Butch Crawford; Taylor socked a double bringing in one run; Grimes singled driving in the fifth and sixth tallies of the frame.

Aldom's catcher Larry Marks caught Grimes trying to steal second as he rifled a perfect peg to second baseman Roger DeCrow to end the Alliance rally. The Salem team went into the top of the sixth frame with a 12-7 margin.

The winners racked up their final two runs with one in the sixth and one more in the seventh, while Dermotta limited the Alliance aggregation to only two safeties in the last two frames and held them scoreless.

Fans were treated to a dispute in the last of the sixth inning when the Alliance catcher Hall was at bat and seemed to be hit by one of Dermotta's close pitches. The Alliance manager, coaching at third base, screamed that Hall was hit and plate umpire Paul Beery waved the batter to first.

DERMOTTA THEN came storming from the mound claiming that the ball never hit Hall. Base umpire Fred Windon then entered the argument and said that the ball did not touch Hall. The two umpires had a conference and Hall was brought back to bat. It was later disclosed that the ball had knicked catcher Marks' glove when it bounded away and Beery thought it had touched Hall. Hall ended up with a walk.

Tom Owen, Roberts, DeCrow and John Hanna each rapped out two hits for Aldom's in a 10-hit attack that was helped by eight Alliance errors.

Braun collected three singles in four trips to the plate for Alliance to feature in the eight hit effort for the losers.

Ailes Insurance was knocked out of the unbeaten ranks in Class H action, as Home Furniture pounded out a decisive 15-2 victory last night. This now puts Home Furniture in first place by a half game.

In Class G play, Bricker & Bricker banged out an 18-6 victory over the Eagles, and in Class F action, first-place Sekely's pounded Youngstown Kitchens 17-5 while Electric Furnace pushed across one run in the top of the eighth inning to top Eljer 3-2. In the one Class E encounter, Columbiana V.F.W. trimmed CIO 4022 (Leetonia) 9-7. The Merchants Vending and Hobbycraft game in Class H, originally scheduled for last night was postponed due to a lack of qualified umpires.

The Home Furniture 11-hit attack was led by Jeff Zimmerman, Ken Stein, Ted Todd, and Mike Mehno. Stein and Zimmermann held Ailes to only 4 scattered hits. Home Furniture is now 8-1 while Ailes is 7-1 on the season.

The Bricker & Bricker win was highlighted by Jim Wagner's six RBIs and his brilliant three hit, 13-strikeout pitching.

Chuck Joseph and Doug Kiliman combined their pitching talents to notch the victory for Sekely's. Kiliman also aided the cause in the batting department by blasting out two doubles and a single in four trips to the plate.

Rich Perrin collected two of the five hits for the winning Columbiana unit as R. Oxley paced the losers cause by rapping out a triple, double and single in four times at bat for CIO 4022.

Colavito Raps 1st Inning Homer; Giants' Stu Miller Stars Again

Rain Causes All-Star Tilt to End 1-1 After Nationals Tie In Sixth

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

BOSTON (AP) — Admittedly unhappy over what he called an "unsatisfactory ending," perfectionist Paul Richards, the American League All-Star manager, today expressed pleasure over at least one aspect of Monday's rained-out 1-1 tie at Fenway Park.

"I am happy to report that the American League team, to a man, certainly is deserving of no criticism," he said.

"The boys had a little different outlook on this game. I thought I could detect a little more determination."

Was Richards implying that the American League stars had not given their best efforts in the first-

All-Star game, won by the National League, 5-4, in San Francisco, two weeks ago?

Not Much Anxiety
"Well," said Richards, measuring every word, "it might have been more imagination on my part, or perhaps I felt the way I did because it was my first All-Star game as manager and I wanted so badly to win it, but I honestly felt there was not as much anxiety and determination as in this second game."

The tie was a bitter disappointment to Richards.
"A high hopper and an infield scratch single was the difference between a brilliant 1-0 shutout and an unsatisfactory tie," he said. "It's too bad the game could not have been played to a conclusion."

The high hopper and the scratch single took place in the sixth inning when the Nationals overcame a 1-0 American League lead built up by Rocky Colavito's first-inning home run off right-hander Bob Purkey of Cincinnati.

After Henry Aaron had grounded out to open the sixth, Eddie Mathews walked, Willie Mays flied out but Don Schwall, Boston's precocious rookie right-hander hit Orlando Cepeda with an errant pitch, and Eddie Kasko beat out a high bounce to short. Bill White, who got two of the national's five hits, then singled behind second base, to score Mathews with the tying run.

Nationals Held in Check
Until then, the Nationals had been held in check by Detroit's Jim Bunning, who pitched three perfect innings, and Schwall, who kept Mays and company from crossing the plate despite three hits in the fourth and fifth innings. Minnesota's Camilo Pascual nearly duplicated Bunning's perfect pitching, yielding only a base on balls and striking out four in the final three innings.

Four national league pitchers limited the opposition to four hits. Stu Miller, the little San Francisco hurler, turned in the most brilliant job of all. He fanned five of the ten batters he faced, including Mickey Mantle, Ellie Howard and pinch hitter Roy Sievers after Al Kaline had singled to open the last half of the ninth.

Aldom's, Firemen Play This Weekend

Pairings for the Hot Stove State Tournament, scheduled to begin Saturday in Alliance, were held last night in Alliance.

Salem's two representatives will go to the post on the first two days of the tourney. Aldom's Diner will take on the Windham Pilots at 4:30 p.m. Saturday, in Class D action on Silver Park Field No. 1. The Firemen meet Nick Yanko's at 1 p.m. Sunday on Silver Park Field No. 2 in quest of the Class G crown.

Both All-Star Games Expected to Remain

BOSTON (AP) — The player representatives of the Major League clubs meet today to decide if they want one or two All-Star games a year in the future and also to consider a resolution calling for the end of segregation in spring training.

The players are expected to ask for continuation of the two All-Star games, because the bulk of the receipts and television money goes into the fund supporting their pension plan. They have played two games in each of the last three years.

Frank Scott, agent of the Major League Players' Association, said Bill Bruton of the Detroit Tigers and Bill White of the St. Louis Cardinals will present the Negro players' requests for the end of any segregation in living facilities during spring training. Several of the clubs had equal facilities last spring but others did not.

VETERANS COME THROUGH — Catcher Dick Brown, left, and first baseman Norm Cash have helped keep the Detroit Tigers at the top of the American League this season. Brown, who never hit good enough to be a regular, has been a strong receiver and clutch hitter, batting 70 points above his major league average. Cash has been one off the league's top batsman all season.

Muck's Win 96-66, Still Undefeated

Muck's All-Stars remained unbeaten in Summer Basketball League play as they trounced Dell's Jets, 96-66 Monday at the Centennial Park court for their sixth victory.

Ed Daugherty was high point man for the game as he swished the nets for 16 goals and 32 points. Dan Krichbaum and Rick Theiss also scored in double figures for the winners. Krichbaum netted 24 points and Theiss was credited with 12.

The losers placed three men in double figures too. Ed Koch led the losing cause with 22 counters followed closely by Larry Shuntler with 18. Clyde Shoff garnered 16 points.

In action tonight the Jets oppose Tom's Sunoco and Tom's Kats do battle with Muck's All-Stars.

In other league action Monday Tom's Sunoco won over Tom's Kats by forfeit.

Earl's Eliminated; Dickey Feed Falls

Kenny Paces Gallagher Win With Grand slam; Herman Hurls 3-Hitter

Scoring a run in the first inning was all Old Dutch, Class AA league-leader, needed as pitcher Bill Herman blanked Industrial Mining, 1-0 on a neat three-hitter in one of three games in the Columbiana County Softball Tournament Monday at Kelley Park.

In other games East Liverpool Gallagher's eliminated Earl's Ashland, 9-2 and East Liverpool East End tripped Dickey Feed Service, made up of Herron Transfer players, 6-1.

THE VICTORY moves Old Dutch into the semifinal round of the winners bracket against East Liverpool East End on Thursday at 7:45 p.m.

Old Dutch's Lefty Miller lined out a double leading off in the first frame and brought home the bacon on Jim Weizenecker's hit. Miller paced the five hit attack of Old Dutch with a perfect night at the plate going three-for-three. Herman scattered three hits as he captured his second straight win in the tourney.

Old Dutch, which is the favorite to take all the marbles since Lincoln Machine has been eliminated, is 11-4 in league play and has copied two wins in a row in tourney play.

Earl's Ashland became the third aggregation to drop out of the tourney as a grand slam homer in the first inning by Frank Kenny proved to be the big blow in the Gallagher win.

The losers scored in the top of the first on a walk, two wild pitches and a hit to take a short-lived 1-0 lead. After Kenny's blast the Earl's nine fell behind 4-1 and never caught up.

GALLAGHER'S ADDED its last five tallies in the second frame as Kenny singled home two more runs to give him a total of six RBIs for the night. Jack Gallagher clouted a two-run homer in the second to aid Kenny in his one-man offensive show.

Bill Kyser suffered the loss for Earl's. He was relieved by Jim Clayton in the second and Clayton hurled scoreless ball for the remaining five frames.

Howard Wilson capped the win as he fanned nine batters. Six Earl's errors aided Wilson's winning cause.

After taking a 1-0 lead in the first inning, Dickey Feed Service committed six errors to pave the way to its defeat.

Joe Tucker socked a double and Jim Barnes brought him home with Dickey's lone tally, which it maintained for three more frames until East Liverpool started to capitalize on the locals' errors.

The winners got two runs in the fifth on a double by Chick McMillan and another by Jim Potts to take a 2-1 margin.

IN THE SIXTH inning Barnes booted a smash by Al Dawson and after being sacrificed to second he scored on Tucker's bad throw. A second miscue by Barnes in the frame allowed the second run of the inning to score.

Two bad throws by Ken Schoeni in the seventh frame allowed the final two Potter runs in.

Potts collected three hits to lead the way for the East Liverpool nine.

Stitle rapped out the third Dickey Feed safety.

Cub Pack 151
A Pinewood Derby was the feature of the evening when Cub Pack 151 of the Bunker Hill Methodist Church met Thursday at the church.

Winners were Cliff Jones, first, Chuckie Bowman, second, and Bobby McCracken, third.

Other boys competing were: Den 1, Jerry Bell, Burrell Lee Phillips and Billy Mason.

Den 2, Roger Heineman, Donnie Leyman and Rocky Leyman.

When he read of Bobby Jones' grand slam, did it with putting and a cardfile of Olympia Fields' North Course he made during practice rounds.

"I picked up the idea from Gene Andrews, a good amateur out our way, about three years ago," he said, "I pace off each course, chart it and it tells me the yard just how far every point is from the green."

That kept him out of serious trouble all during the tournament. The putter put him up in the headlines. First, he pulled even with the lean, lanky January on Sunday by sinking incredible putts on the last three holes.

Then, in the playoff Monday while another hot sun baked the rain-softened, 6,722-yard, par 35-37-70 course in Chicago's south suburbs, Jerry twice came from two strokes behind. He finally wrapped up his first major title when, after getting birdies on three of the previous five holes, he hit a pressure 3-iron shot out of a fairway trap to within 18 feet of the cup on the last hole.

Trops Hamper January
January, 31, tour regular from Dallas, had a similar trap shot but couldn't bring it off. He caught another trap near the green, pitched up to within 10 feet and missed the putt. He had 34-34-68.

Pro at the Wilshire Country Club at Los Angeles the last seven years, Barber was a farmer, hotel clerk, printer and lathe operator before turning pro golfer. He operated golf driving ranges in California for several years, practiced putting by street light into the night, and finally turned his game enough to become a regular on the pro tour about 10 years ago.

A consistent money-winner, he had never won a major championship however—losing the 1959 PGA by one stroke to Bob Rosburg when he bogied the last two holes.

17 Years and 10 Nations Later---

EAST GERMANY Postwar occupation of Germany gave eastern sector to the Soviets. Russians set up German Democratic People's Republic, October, 1949.

CZECHOSLOVAKIA In 1948 coup, Reds took over by forcing President Benes, through ultimatum, to install pro-Soviet cabinet, join Russian bloc.

HUNGARY Became republic in which Communists had to hold, 1946. Their power grew and in 1949, Rakosi, Communist deputy premier, took over. He announced all existing parties combined into "Independent People's Front," creating new Communist state.

ROMANIA Soviet troops invaded in August, 1944, and thereafter Russians held country. After comeback coup by King Michael, Communists wormed way into government, grew strong enough to force king to abdicate.

YUGOSLAVIA After defeating Germans in World War II, Marshal Tito formed Communist republic closely allied to Russia. But in 1948, Tito rejected Stalin's dictatorial policy. Tito expelled from Cominform and denounced by Kremlin. But after Stalin's death, Bulganin and Khrushchev publicly apologized to Tito and signed agreement recognizing Yugoslavia's independence of Kremlin "party line."

BULGARIA Communists and fellow travelers in "Fatherland Front" (backed by Soviets) won parliamentary majority in October, 1946. In one-tick "plebiscite" the monarchy was abolished and Communist-dominated "republic" set up. Petkov, chief anti-Communist leader, executed.

Like a giant octopus spreading its tentacles to engulf new victims, the Soviet Union has gathered its fold in 17 years. Newsmap and text blocks show how each country was "liberated" only to become a subservient puppet to the dictates of its Kremlin masters.

Church. She recently completed five weeks' parish work at the Abiding Saviour Lutheran Church in Alliance.

Mrs. Cora Henry called on her aunt, Mrs. Paul Gleckler in Boardman, Sunday evening. Mrs. Gleckler has been ill for several months.

Mrs. Mary Feight was surprised with a birthday card shower last Friday on the occasion of the 89th birthday. She received cards, gifts and flowers.

The Columbiana High School Class of '41 held its second reunion at Heck's Restaurant Sunday at 1:30 p.m., with 37 class members, three teachers and 10 guests present.

Teachers present were Miss Stella Esterly, Dorothy Darrow Flower and John Barton.

Martha Yarian Linder gave the invocation. Charles Wagner welcomed and introduced the guests and Rev. Wayne Brubaker held memorial services for four deceased members.

Jane Haggerty Nicholson gave a brief history of the class and Mary Nell Chaddock Cameron of Sumter, S.C., read the class prophecy and will from the class annual.

Lloyd Coppick came the farthest, June Hum Hunston, had the largest family, Virginia Best Zouck, the youngest child and Lucille Bowers Ridel, the first grandparent. Jean Reddington Smith read letters from those unable to attend.

Ryan Snyder, general chairman, conducted the business meeting and presented the special awards. Chairman of reunion, Charles Wagner, Columbiana, secretary-treasurer, Jean Reddington Smith, East Palestine.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Detwiler Sr. presented the class with favors with the class motto, in memory of their son, Ted. Favors were made by Ruth Culp Aiken.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Firestone presented a floral centerpiece in memory of their son, Harold.

Mrs. Thomas French will be host to the Queen Esther class
